

Forerunners for Christ Los Angeles

November 11, 2025 – What a God! What a God! – Erlinda Cruz

We have to pay attention to what God wants, what is He wanting to release, we need to start listening to what He is saying, instead of listening to what we want or what we are accustomed to experiencing or doing. In the end times God is bringing in new things, Revelation says don't tell me you have seen this before because you have not seen this before. So part of what we allowed to experience during this conference is to put God in the pedestal, it cannot be quoted or adulterated with what we want or what we like, the performance or whatever satisfies man's flesh and desire, we have to get out of that realm and enter into the purest realm that God wants us to enter into. The reason why Ruth was saying 'I felt so clean' is because there weren't any compromises. Whether it be the team, though they have a different culture in America, yet it is the culture of godliness, a culture of obedience to God. We were all flowing with the Holy Spirit.

This season we are in is really holy. Whatever we experienced is holiness of God. He wants to be made holy in the midst of us. He wants to be honored; He wants to be lifted up. He does not want us to adulterate His presence. The key is having the right view of God, having a fear of God. We are so casual with God, and we need to get out of that place, we need to honor Him. One thing I noticed is that the people that were there in the conference, they were there for the purpose of meeting with God. Consciously and unconsciously, everyone was there to encounter Him.