Surviving This Present Evil Days (Part 2)

Do you also want to bail? Or how do we cling to the crosses bearing down on our shoulders, dragging behind us, cutting our own tracks in the ancient, albeit narrow, way?

What can keep us from entertaining the toddlers within us who so desperately want to throw our little carnal tantrums and return to the vomit Jesus plucked us from?

Thank Him that He will save the little wretches within us and deliver us from these bodies of death and debauchery, of the kind of deceit that tears a family apart, of the kind of manipulative strategy that engineers and perfects war.

He will save us from these bodies so prone to fatigue and cramps and quitting. These bodies so hesitant to run well all the way to the finish line. In many ways (really, in every way), the cross is the cheat code to the cross.

Jesus' cross necessitates our cross—in that if anybody wants to follow Him, it is a nonnegotiable requirement—but His cross also empowers and enables our own. We are not left without hope or help. David sang it such:

Good and upright is the LORD Therefore He teaches sinners in the way The humble He guides in justice And the humble He teaches His way.

In the last days as we are in now... chaos and more chaos shall come... that's why Paul reminded the Galatians..."not to be weary in well doing... for in due season you shall reap your reward..."

Where we are today is preparation place... let's not waste our training... preparing!
